Important information for a passenger to know

Documents accepted for identification and verification for domestic flights at time of check-in are detailed in the following file:

a) Identification documents authorized by law (Certificate of Citizenship, Immigration Bond, Passport, or Driving License).

b) The photocopy of any of the documents listed above is not a valid document and is not eligible for identification if not properly notarized.

c) For identification purposes, diplomatic credentials may only be used if issued by the Department of Foreign Affairs for Diplomats, Consuls, and international organizations, accredited by the country legally.

d) Minors are allowed to travel with the birth certificate, citizenship card, or certification that the document is in process, issued by the Civil Registry.

Valid identification documents for passengers for international flights.

Notwithstanding the provisions of migration agreements or other agreements regarding passenger flux, a current passport will be needed for passengers on international flights.

For members of the Andean Community, the Cartagena Agreement or Andean Sub regional Integration Agreement countries, is also valid for travel the certificate of citizenship, or national identity card (DNI).