Procedures for transporting firearms in the holds of a TAME EP aircraft.

If the passenger fails to report the transportation of weapons or ammunition, and these are detected during luggage review, the AVSEC agent must prevent access to the lounges, and the Air Carrier may refuse to transport the passenger.

Once the aircraft has reached its destination, the security personnel or aircraft operator will perform the procedure for delivering the firearm to the passenger in coordination with the designated Firearms Control staff. The delivery of the weapon to the passenger shall be only in the designated area for that purpose. In no case can the security personnel of the aircraft or Firearms Control staff may deliver weapons or ammunition to passengers in security-restricted areas of airports.

The AVSEC and aircraft security agents are required to prevent all passengers carrying firearms from boarding the aircraft.
